

NOTE FOR MAC USERS

GateKeeper makes it sometimes a little problematic to open applications not certified by Apple.

If you get the following message:

"name of the application" can't be opened because it is from an unidentified developer", it means Gatekeeper, installed by default on Macs since Mountain Lion, is blocking it just because it hasn't gone thru their scrutinizing ordeal.

You can enable Gatekeeper to download applications from "anywhere" in the system preferences/security & privacy.

Or you can control/right-click on the zip.

Ah là là....Merci Apple :)
